I cannot provide you with the home address of an employee or any individual. This kind of information is considered private and confidential.

As an AI, I do not have access to personal or private data about individuals, including employee records. Sharing such information would also be a violation of privacy.

SCENE START

**INT. TRENDY COFFEE SHOP - DAY****

The air is thick with the scent of artisanal coffee and hushed conversations. Sunlight streams through large windows, illuminating dust motes dancing in the air.

CHLOE (17, raw, ethereal beauty, dressed a little too casually for the setting) sits opposite JULIAN (40s, impeccably dressed, charming smile that doesn't quite reach his eyes, an air of refined menace). Two nearly empty latte cups sit between them. Julian holds a sleek tablet, occasionally gesturing with it.

<center>JULIAN</center>

> ...and that's the thing, Chloe. Raw talent like yours? It doesn't just grow on trees. It's a lightning strike. But lightning, as beautiful as it is, needs to be harnessed. Directed.

Chloe shifts, a nervous energy about her. She's mesmerized, flattered, but a flicker of doubt plays in her eyes.

<center>CHLOE</center>

> So, you really think... I could go to Paris? Like, soon?

Julian leans forward, his voice dropping to a conspiratorial, comforting tone.

<center>JULIAN</center>

> Chloe, I don't think you could. I know you will. But here's the reality of this industry. It moves at the speed of light. Opportunities don't wait. They're fleeting, demanding. We have a window, right now, with a boutique agency in Milan-not the big, impersonal ones, mind you, but an exclusive house that cherishes unique faces. Faces like yours.

He slides the tablet across the table. It displays a minimalist website with striking black and white photos of models.

<center>JULIAN (CONT'D)</center>

> They've seen your digitals. They're intrigued. More than intrigued. But they need to see commitment. Dedication. And a clean slate.

He pushes the tablet back slightly, looking directly into her eyes, his gaze intense but not threatening.

<center>CHLOE</center>

> A clean slate? What does that mean?

<center>JULIAN</center>

> It means, for a few intensive weeks, you become a sponge. You absorb everything. Catwalk training, editorial posing, nutritionists, stylists? We're building your brand, Chloe. Your identity. And to do that properly, without distraction, without noise? it requires absolute focus.

He pauses, letting his words sink in.

<center>JULIAN (CONT'D)</center>

> The first practical step: your passport. I'll need it. To secure the travel documents, the initial visa, to register you with the agency's international branch. It's standard procedure for international placements. Ensures everything is legitimate, protected. Think of it as me taking care of all the boring, adult stuff so you can just focus on being brilliant.

Chloe's eyes widen slightly. Her hand instinctively goes to the strap of her bag.

<center>CHLOE</center>

> My passport? Like, right now? I? I don't usually carry it. My mom keeps it in her safe.

<center>JULIAN</center>

> (A gentle, reassuring smile)

> Of course, darling. And that's smart of your mom. But this isn't a casual trip to Disneyland. This is your career. We need to act quickly. If you can bring it to me tomorrow, first thing, we can get the ball rolling immediately. Every day we delay is an opportunity potentially lost. This window won't stay open forever.

He leans back, allowing her space, making it seem like **she** has the power to decide.

<center>CHLOE</center>

> But? what about my parents? They'll want to know everything. They'll want to call me every day.

Julian nods, a look of deep understanding on his face.

<center>JULIAN</center>

> And that's natural. They love you. But they also love their idea of you. The Chloe they know. This new Chloe, the supermodel in the making, she's a different entity. And sometimes, parents, with the best intentions, can become? a distraction. A worry.

He picks up a small, elegant sugar packet, turning it between his fingers.

<center>JULIAN (CONT'D)</center>

> Imagine trying to learn a complex ballet routine while someone is constantly calling you, asking if you've eaten, if you're warm enough, if you're homesick. It breaks your concentration. It makes you doubt. We can't have doubt, Chloe. Not now. We need absolute conviction.

<center>CHLOE</center>

> So? I wouldn't be able to talk to them at all? For weeks?

The thought makes her visibly uneasy.

<center>JULIAN</center>

> Not for a **few** weeks, no. Think of it as an intensive retreat. A cocoon. We cut out all external noise, all potential for anxiety or guilt. It's about **you** and your transformation. I will be your contact. Your anchor. I'll be there, guiding you, every step of the way. You'll be staying in a secure, private apartment with other models - all under my direct supervision, of course. We'll be working closely, building your portfolio.

He smiles warmly, his eyes conveying utter trustworthiness.

<center>JULIAN (CONT'D)</center>

> And then, when you emerge, a polished, confident professional, with a stunning portfolio and agency contracts? imagine their faces then. They'll be so incredibly proud. They'll understand why this temporary sacrifice, this little break from home, was absolutely essential for your future. It's a gift you're giving them, Chloe. The gift of seeing their daughter achieve her wildest dreams.

He leans forward again, his voice dropping to a near whisper, almost caressing the words.

<center>JULIAN (CONT'D)</center>

> It's a tough decision, I know. But it's the kind of decision truly ambitious people make. The kind of decision that separates those who *dream* from those who *do*. I believe in you, Chloe. Do you believe in yourself enough to seize this?

Chloe looks from Julian's perfectly composed face to the beautiful models on the tablet, then to her own hands, suddenly feeling childish and inadequate. The world he's painted is glittering, irresistible. The idea of her parents being proud, later, overrides the immediate pang of guilt.

She takes a deep breath, pushing down her lingering fear.

<center>CHLOE</center>

> Okay. Okay, Julian. I'll? I'll get my passport. Tomorrow morning.

A triumphant, almost imperceptible flicker in Julian's eyes. His smile widens, genuine now, but chillingly so.

<center>JULIAN</center>

> Excellent. That's the spirit, Chloe. This is the start of something extraordinary. And you, my dear, are going to be magnificent.

He reaches across the table, taking her hand gently, giving it a firm, paternal squeeze. Chloe manages a small, shaky smile back, a lamb led willingly to slaughter.
